The Lean Line

EXCAVATION IS DIGGING INTO LEAN

Our Grunau excavation crew took the initiative earlier this year to Lean out their trailer and shop area so everyone can be more productive by finding things quickly and having the material available at the start of their next job. A critical component of the Lean principles is documentation, and in the photo below, you'll see one of our employees holding the signs they created for the excavation trailer. One sign explains the restocking procedure (which needs to be done after each use so it's ready right away for the next job) and one sign lists what the trailer inventory consists of.

Thanks, Excavation, for helping us to win
our War on Waste!
