GRUNAU COMPANY LAUNCHES NEW WEB SITE AND CORPORATE BROCHURE

OAK CREEK, Wis. (January 17, 2005) — Grunau Company today launched its redesigned Web site, www.grunau.com, and also completed a new corporate brochure.

Grunau redesigned its Web site to more accurately reflect its position in the marketplace and its corporate culture. The new site offers a more in-depth look into the company's full-range of services and capabilities. It features case studies, project snapshots and extensive descriptions of each Grunau service including: engineering services, HVAC, plumbing, temperature controls, fire protection, Grunau Metals, and service and maintenance. Key contact information and employee biographies also are included, allowing viewers to learn more about Grunau's decision-makers.

"We wanted to develop a corporate Web site that better reflected the Grunau culture and what we stand for," said Paul Grunau, president and CEO of Grunau Company. "The new site allows people to learn about our extensive range of capabilities and also gives them the opportunity to get to know us better as a company."

The six-page corporate brochure complements the Web site, also offering a company-wide look at Grunau's capabilities. Like the Web site, the brochure focuses on the people who make Grunau work and the unique culture of the company.

Grunau Company's team of skilled professionals designs, installs and services mechanical systems, including HVAC, plumbing, fire protection and specialized electrical systems. Grunau Metals, a division of the company, offers specialty metal fabrication services.
